

JAMES "JAMIE" BAKER III

DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC POLICY
US HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

With over 12 years of Congressional experience, Jamie Baker has held various jobs in the House of Representatives with his most recent job being the Director of Public Policy for the 27th and 4th Districts of Texas. In his role as Director of Public Policy, Jamie served as the senior liaison with constituents, local governmental entities and organizations on legislative issues that impact the district. Prior to moving back to Texas, Jamie served as the Senior Policy Advisor in the office of then-Congressman John Ratcliffe's Washington office, where he advised on legislative issues, including healthcare, energy, tax, homeland security, telecommunications, education and appropriations.

Jamie is a born and bred Texan and attended The University of Texas at Austin for his bachelor's degree in Government and George Washington University for his Master's in Political Management. During graduate school, he served at the White House under President George W. Bush and Vice President Dick Cheney. When not working in the U.S. House of Representatives, you can find Jamie spending time with friends and family, cheering for the Texas Longhorns, or training for his next marathon.
