

H. LENWOOD BROOKS V

DIRECTOR & VP OF GOV'T RELATIONS
FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK OF DALLAS

H. Lenwood Brooks V is a seasoned public policy expert and former senior executive at a federal financial regulatory agency. In 2023, he joined the Federal Home Loan Bank of Dallas as Director and Vice President of Government and Industry Relations. Most recently, Brooks served on the transition team for President Donald J. Trump.

Prior to his current role, Brooks was Chief of Staff at the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA) under Chairman Rodney E. Hood. The NCUA, which charters and insures credit unions across the United States, oversees a system safeguarding more than $2 trillion in assets. In this capacity, Brooks managed an annual budget of over $350 million and led a workforce of approximately 1,200 full-time employees.

Before his tenure at NCUA, Brooks was a Vice President at the Securities Industry and Financial Markets Association (SIFMA), Washington's leading trade association for Wall Street. There, he led teams in external affairs and media relations, developing and executing strategies to support efficient capital markets.

Brooks began his career on Capitol Hill, serving under then-Congressman (now Senator) Roger F. Wicker. As a senior advisor, he played a key role during Senator Wicker's tenure on the Senate Banking Committee.

A Jackson, Mississippi, native, Brooks is a graduate of Ole Miss. He currently resides in Fort Worth, Texas. His insights have been featured on Fox News, Fox Business, and CNBC, among other national outlets.
